I. Areas of Specialization

As of now I have more than 19 years of work experience in field-work based research and authored several research reports and papers in my areas of interest. My research work focuses on public policy and finance, fiscal decentralisation, rural development, utilization of funds in social sector programmes (health, education, water and Sanitation), budgeting for Justice System and responsiveness of budgets to disadvantaged groups like bonded labour, children, minorities, Dalits and Adivasis. I am proficient in the field of teaching, training and capacity building, and have contributed significantly to collaborative efforts with civil society organizations, academic and government institutions across the country and abroad. - Completed the project on Capacity Building on Gender Responsive Budgeting and Analysis led by CBGA and IM South Asia (July 2022 to December 2023)

I have led a partnership between CBGA and IM South Asia to carry out research, preparing training modules and conducting capacity building interventions on gender responsive budgeting and analysis for 18 partner organisations of IM South Asia in India and Nepal. The first round of partnership, carried out between July 1, 2022 and March 31, 2023, involved a series of orientation–cum-training sessions on gender responsive budgeting and analysis. The sessions saw participation from a total of nearly 60 individuals from eighteen organisations across India and Nepal. For the second round of partnership, CBGA focused on: a) Deepened the knowledge component of the capacity-building interventions and prepare supplementary knowledge resources for sustained use by participants; and (b) Facilitated customised capacity-building interventions for different groups/cohorts of partner organisations, for the application of gender analysis and budgeting in ways relevant to their work.

- I have taught the Indian Economy and Public Finance for the academic year of 2023-24 at Centre for Media and Mass Communication, Jamia Hamdard, New Delhi.
